

The Federal Communications Commission

Dear The Federal Communications Commission,

I do not want to pay more for my telephone service! I urge you to reject a flat fee proposal that would change how contributions are made to the Universal Service Fund. I am concerned that this proposal could make my current service unaffordable.

Under the flat fee proposal you are considering, people who make few long distance calls would pay the same as people or businesses that make many calls. In other words, low-volume and primarily residential customers would bear the same universal service fund burden as a high-volume residential or business customers.

I use my wireless phone for safety, security and convenience. I don't want to lose these benefits so that big businesses can pay less than their fair share. I urge you to reject the proposal to move the USF collection system to a flat-fee.

Keep the USF Fair! Avoid falling into the now ever present routine of favoring big business at the expense of those who really make this country work and who spend the majority of the money. Increasing corporate profitability at the expense of the consumer does nothing to encourage big business to decrease thier expenses and increase thier productivity. It only pads the coffers of the stockholders and senior officers while they contine to send jobs out of the country. We will cease to exist as a world power when we cease to be producers. Big users of long distance need to find ways to reduce thier costs on thier own, not with the help of big government.

Sincerely,
